Alison Rausch has served on the South Metro Fire Rescue Board since June 2020. She has a BS in Economics from Santa Clara University and has had a varied background in residential home sales (including loan and escrow), running a family business for eight years and now working for The Colorado League of Charter Schools, focusing on charter school advocacy. Alison has spent much of the last twelve years volunteering at her children's K-8 charter school. She has been on their Board of Directors for 8 years. Alison has learned much about budget processes, policy setting and best practices for board members. She believes this experience will be valuable during her time on the SMFR board.

Alison has been a Colorado and Douglas County resident for 17 years and Castle Pines for 16 years. She and her husband were both born and raised in California's Bay Area, but now proudly call Colorado their forever home. They have a daughter at University of Kansas and a son in his senior year in high school. Alison looks forward to serving this outstanding organization, its first responders and staff, and citizens of the South Metro Fire Rescue District.
